

I. Original Breath (birthed, New York City, 1942) In Chicago, the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) was founded.

Birtherd I was, to gasp in breaths of white air (air in that hospital white for whites only), colorless, odorless as the presorted airs of an iron lung.

Untainted was I by breaths of any one smit with black lung disease or faces swabbed with coal-dust; no blackface grease for an onstage mime that aped any bodies with black skin disease.

I needed, so, no extra scrubbing (nor my back a whipping), since I breathed out no black breaths from any black lungs that screamed for air in rage
